You are invited to the:

“Favorite Shots” Photographic Show – Dec. 15

Everyone has a favorite photo. That’s the theme of a public opening reception for “Favorite Shots,” a juried show of about 70 photos by aspiring and established photographers. The opening will be from 6 to 9 p.m., Tuesday, December 15, at Todd Photographic, 2711 E. Indian School Rd., in Phoenix. Admission is free.

“We received over 400 photographs,” said Wilson Wyatt, a fine arts photographer and organizer of the show. “The final selection was juried by three professional photographers.”

Professional photographers Wilson Wyatt, Michael Madsen, and Bob Miller selected the photographs for the show, which will be hung for public display in the studio until January 15, 2010.

“The response from aspiring photographers everywhere was beyond our expectations,” said Wyatt. “We are already planning a second “Favorite Shots” showing for 2010.”

The public was invited in November to submit their favorite photos to be juried by professional photographers and then framed and hung as a public studio exhibit at Todd Photographic’s studio space.
